About your book:

Working title of manuscript:

Length of total manuscript in words or double-spaced pages:

How much of the manuscript is currently completed?

What is the anticipated audience (type of reader) for the manuscript?

What is the anticipated market (publisher, line, or type of book) for the manuscript?

Are there specific questions in regard to this submission that you would like the critiquer to address?

Is there anything about the manuscript the critiquer should know in order to provide the most useful feedback?

About you:

How long have you been writing fiction? How long have you been writing romance?

What are your writing goals?

I understand that the feedback I will receive is the informed opinion of an experienced author/teacher but that it is not guaranteed to result in my book winning contests or being published.

I acknowledge that there are a limited number of basic plots and many variations on them. I understand that romantic themes, character names, plot events, etc. may appear in more than one romance novel through the original invention of individual authors and not as the result of deliberate copying. I understand that plagiarism is the intentional copying of sections of another author's work, and that the recurrence of random ideas, titles, names, words, and expressions is not an indication of plagiarism. I agree that any potential similarity between my story and any story written by Leigh Michaels is coincidental and not a result of submitting my work for critique.

By signing this application form, I agree to the above statements and conditions.
